You guys were saying the same when we bought RUSH. it's really just that the games are both being developed by the same developer, but with different focuses. I think the execution of the game is just so much better with Buzz. Buzz isnt as good as rush because it took us 3 years of making rush to get to the point where we were comfortable with the engine and where we could put out a game at the quality we wanted. RUSH was a bad game when we started. It never got great. Buzz is great in that it's actually going to be a game. It's missing the same level of polish that rush has, but if you were just going to stick with one game you would be a lot better off going for it. Ugh, people are saying this game will be complete before rush was completed. Even if they are working on the same game it still doesn't mean it will be near the quality as rush. We are going to be seeing a demo in two to three months because it is still being made and will probably be done by then. money is being spent on a game that I'm invested in. Rush has that all over Buzz. I like that both games are being developed by the same developer (Larian). Larian and its studio has a long history with great games (Titan, Orcs & Elves, Dungeon Keeper, Risen, Baldur's Gate II). The game looks like an above average strategy game with multiplayer modes. It looks like there will be a is the official blog of LAVA. Please contact us by email if you wish to be featured in a tutorial or article. We're very excited to announce that we've finally released our public beta of Squash+. This release marks a brand new platform feature that is unique to Lava and shows how far our rapid, iterative development can take us. If you have any feature requests, please let us know via our bug report forum. What is Squash+? Squash+ is a platform for building online games of skill and games that are purely about discovery. Squash+ aims to take the game concepts pioneered by Sony's PS1 classic, Disruptor, and Square's Game Boy Virtual Boy classic, Battle Fantasia. On PC, the direct inspiration is Street Fighter 2, which is often lauded for its unique feel. Today, there are no truly accessible online titles for PC with this level of depth and complexity. A large part of the problem is how the storefronts are organized. We've all played on PC multiplayer servers where only one side of the match ever gets viewed by other players. The old PlayStation Store, with its one-sided refund policy, was even worse. Stocks of powerful weapons got quickly depleted as players, sometimes from a region with no official console, used Steam to trash one another. There was a lot of cheating that could be avoided through a system like Squash+. In Squash+, every player on a single server is always visible to all others. This changes the game's whole dynamic in a good way. What began as an internal Battle Fantasia implementation has evolved into a unique platform for skillful game design where players often enjoy watching a buddy play a game while they themselves try a game, as well as online PvP. Why did we develop Squash+? Square and Sony have been quietly rolling out new games on their respective platforms through various store channels. These stores have no official support, and frequently have bad buy limits. Just having a store it's own isn't useful if it isn't on the Gamepad, or if players can't connect to the store via Steam. Squash+ aims to make Square and Sony's official stores a first-class citizen and offer the same convenience as Steam. Squash+ also provides the core gameplay and structure for our other digital titles, like Firecracker.

There are 7 characters in total. And each of them have their own voice and unique characteristics. Jerry Jobhopper is the main character. He has 3 different variations of him: Gentleman Jerry, Jerky Jerry and Monster Jerry. It also has 24 different pranks that you can use. Besides collecting objects from your workplace, there are also 30 unique locations which contain special objects, like the secret door, reception, etc.. There are 21 bosses that you encounter throughout your daily routine. There are 7 staff members that you can interact with. At the end of the day you can send them home. Bosses have a "team punishment" system where you can send them to the boss on a certain day. With bad luck Jerry gets fired. In that case he needs to collect all 7 characters and bring them to the college dean who will then decide whether Jerry will be fired or not. All bosses have their own pranks that need to be unlocked. When Jerry annoys his boss, every time he gets a fine from them. You can pass his fine with the help of a character. Jerry Jobhopper has a personality meter (the brown meter) that fluctuates depending on the color of the character. It's meant as a visual guide for your anger, not as an actual gauge, just a visual indicator. Jerry Jobhopper has 3 different endings based on the bosses' team punishments. Please note that the game contains several errors and bugs. We are looking for help and testing feedback to fix these errors and bugs. Game engine: C# Script engine (Mono), some of the project objects written in C#, some of the GameObjects with other script and Class code written in C#. 1.
